homicidal act. Thereafter Mr. Justice Dow-ling, who presided at the trial, committed him to the Matteawan State Hospital, alleging that he deemed his discharge at that time to be dangerous to public safety. In May, 1908, he obtained a writ of habeas corpus to secure his discharge on the ground that he was then sane. The question of his sanity was carefully inquired into by Mr. Justice Morschauser, who in an able opinion decided that he was then insane and that it would be unsafe to set him free.

In June, 1909, another writ of habeas corpus was sued out in his behalf, an exhaustive inquiry was held as to his then insanity and a lucid opinion was written by Mr. Justice Mills in which he decided that he was then insane and that it would be dangerous to the public peace and safety to grant his discharge.

The present writ was obtained to secure the release of Harry K. Thaw on the ground that he is now same and the question of his present sanity or insanity was the subject of an inquiry occupying eighteen days, during which the court had the aid of most able and faithful counsel.

It would be interseting to review the iegal history of this case, but no useful pur-pose can be helped by doing so. Perhaps an exception ought to be made so far as to say that there was some testimony in the case to the effect that the demeanor of Harry K. Thaw on this hearing was better than it was on the hearing before Mr. Justice Mills.

My whole duty is fully performed when I decide the single question of fact presented for decision, namely, is Harry K. Thaw at present sane or insane, and would his re-lease be dangerous to the public peace and llaving listened to all the testimony and seriously considered it I am of the opinion that Harry K. Thaw is still insane and that his discharge would be dangerous to the public peace and safety.

The writ therefore must be dismissed upon the merits and Horry K. Thaw remanded into the custody of the defendant as superintendent of the Matteawan State Meritian.

The latest attempt of Thaw to gain his release from the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane was started here before Justice Keogh on June 17, when Thaw's mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw. brought the question of his release into court again on a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that he is now sane and illegally held in the asylum.

When told of the decision of Justice Keogh in the county jail here this afternoon Thaw gave out through Sheriff William Doyle the following statement:

I am sending the sad word to my family. It would have been better had I been acquitted like Capt. Hains.

Other than this there is no statement from Thaw. His counsel does not allow him to say more. Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw is now in Pittsburg, but she is expected to arrive in White Plains on Sunday. said to-day that he did not

There is one drawback to the situation, however, and that is that the steel mills are so congested with orders that they are not able to book much of these high priced orders for prompt delivery, which is the very cause why such high premiums are being offered—the inability of consumers to get any guarantees of prompt deliveries unless they pay high prices above quotations for them.

White Plains, July 26.—Supreme Court Justice Martin J. Keogh this afternoon handed down a decision to the effect that Harry K. Thaw is still insane and that his release would be dangerous to the public. The decision follows:

In January, 1908, Harry K. Thaw was tried on an indictment charging him with having committed the erime of murder, the was acquitted by the jury on the ground that he was insane when he committed the homicidal act. Thereafter Mr. Justice Downer of the charge and hinted at another woman in the case.

The cramped, dingy room where the wife must answer to the charge of shooting Eagene Grace seats only 125 persons. Thousands have already applied to court to 1 cers for cards of admission. Judge Roan frowned upon a plan to rent the city and torium and force Mrs. Grace publicly to play her part in the tragedy.

Meantime the Rev. Mr. Huffer continued to assert that he had received a letter purporting to be from Miss Gould, as this despatch from Denver shows:

LABOR UNIONS' POWER OVER THE RAILROADS

Erie's Vice - President Tells What the Roads Must Contend With.

"GRAVE CRISIS" AT HAND

Head of P. R. R. Gives His View as to What Increase of Wages Would Mean.

Vice-president J. C. Stuart of the Erie Railroad put before the Straus arbitra tion board at the Oriental Hotel, Manhattan Beach, yesterday, a picture of what he considered the grave crisis that is confronting the country for the reason that organized labor has an ungerous force in the face of the railroads which are hemmed in on all sides by

James McCrea, president of the Pennsylvania, also took the stand and dealt with the situation that in his belief would result if the engineers were to

"In the last five years the employees of the company I represent have voted five times to strike," said Mr. Stuart. "The leader in charge claimed that he had the power to block the highways of this country and expressed his intention to exercise it. To appreciate the gravity of the situation imagine any other in dividual—president of a railroad or its directors—assuming to stop the public highways for any reason and deprive forty to fifty millions of citizens of the necessaries of life.

"The best test of their power is fo the general public to attempt to pass a Federal law to place responsibility upon organized labor engaged in interstate is what Mr. Taft had to say on old maids in one of his speeches to the girls of a normal college in Georgia:

I think that the secret of most domestic in felicity is that young women think that unless they are married their lives are not a success. As a matter of fact I believe the reverse is exactly true.

Look into your own lives and your families. Take some aunt of yours who never married. What a sweet, self-sacrificing, disinterested and lovely character she has grown to be at 70 and so years of age, and think of the beneficence which spread over all the family circle in which she lives! And then tell me she would have been better off if she had been married. I don't believe it.

The President when he said this, had in the United States."

Mr. Stuart said that as far as the problem affected the Erie, if the engineers got their corresponding increases the Erie and the lines which it operated would be annually $1,009,884 behind its try fixed charges. He said that he meant by fixed charges.

the situation as a whole be treated very fully.

"How are the railroads going to provide the additional capital required to make improvements that the public demand and which the necessities of giving proper transportation require? There have been a number of ways in which the demands have been met heretofore. Maturing indebtedness has been met by issues of new indebtedness at lower rates and the differences have been saved. That day is past, as far as we can see. We have this year $10.000,000 worth of bonds falling due on which we are paying $1/4 per cent. They cannot be renewed under any circumstances at less than 41/4 to 41/4 per cent. and in 1918 there are $26,000,000 of 31/2 per cents. coming due in the same way.

of 3½ per cents, coming due in the same way.

The cost of living has gone up to the investor just as it has to the other people, and he feels the same necessity for an increased income that those whose income is dependent upon their labor feel. It has reached this condition that if an advance in wages takes place we must receive advances in rates or have some compensation or some way of recouping ourselves. In the latest decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the language that was used, we are not encouraged to feel that we are going to get that. I merely want to impress you with the fact that the railroad companies under present conditions cannot stand with the fact that the railroad companies under present conditions cannot stand an increase in their costs of operation without compensation in some form."

James A. McCrea. who is general manager of the Long Island, preceded his father on the stand. He said that his road showed a yearly deficit and that it certainly could not stand an increase of wages. The first witness was J. H. Smith of the Coal and Coke Railroad. He said that he had been forced to grant increases of 40 per cent. to labor in the last two years and that the present rate would mean 55 per cent. more and would swamp the company.
